Municipal Elections are often overshadowed by provincial and federal elections. While municipalities may be considered subservient to senior levels of government, they have a great deal of influence and impact on the daily lives of citizens. Low voter turnout is a perennial problem – but is it because things are going well or because citizens literally think “you can’t fight city hall”? Is 2020 is going to be different? The municipal sector faces enormous challenges – financial pressures, the environment, the economy and a range of social issues from opioid abuse to homelessness dominate the landscape. Join us as our panel discusses the 2020 Saskatchewan Municipal elections and the issues you need to know about before you head to the polls.
