CONNECT VIRTUALLY AND EXPLORE THE
MASTER OF GOVERNANCE AND ENTREPRENEURSHIP IN NORTHERN AND INDIGENOUS AREAS

Are you interested in a fulfilling career that delivers impact?

Designed for professionals with an interest in Northern and Indigenous communities, this flexible online program provides you with the necessary knowledge and skills to support and lead governance, social, health, economic, and environmental opportunities within a community setting. Through your master's work, you will gain entrepreneurial competencies and real-world experience in governance, consultation, and public policy. You will also conduct applied research that strengthens communities and addresses the needs of the people of the region.

Join GENI staff members Emmy Stavøstrand Neuls and Jonathan Crossen to learn about our joint graduate program and how it can help set you (and the North) on a path for success! Enroll today and connect with our international network of professionals who understand the current and future challenges and strengths of communities just like yours. Together we can learn the best ways to build vibrant economies, honour Indigenous rights, and protect sensitive northern environments.

DID YOU KNOW? The online Joint Master of Governance and Entrepreneurship in Northern and Indigenous Areas program is jointly delivered by the Johnson Shoyama Graduate School of Public Policy's University of Saskatchewan campus and the Centre for Sami Studies, UiT The Arctic University of Norway. It can be completed full-time over 2 years or part-time over 4 years.
