

EMPOWERING GRADUATE POLICY STUDENTS IN AN ONLINE PROGRAM

A JOHNSON SHOYAMA ONEd PRESENTATION

---

TUESDAY, JANUARY 12, 2021 / 12:00 - 1:30 PM

Delivered via Zoom. Click here to register.

---

Presented by Dr. Cheryl Camillo,
Assistant Professor, JSGS

This presentation will describe how course structure and the Moodle learning management system are utilized to prepare professional graduate students to understand, analyze, and formulate policy.

Dr. Cheryl Camillo is an Assistant Professor at the Johnson Shoyama Graduate School of Public Policy and the former Director of its online Master of Health Administration (MHA) program. She teaches online and in-person courses at JSGS, including Health Policy and Social Policy. Prior to her transition to academic training and research, she worked for twenty years in the non-profit and public sectors in the United States as a policy advocate, senior federal policymaker, and policy implementer. In these roles, she mobilized policy knowledge for many audiences ranging from the general public to senior elected officials.

The Online Education (OnEd) Network is a group of experts—and aspiring experts—working towards creating top-notch online courses for the university community.

For more information or to be added to the OnEd mailing list, please contact Martin Boucher (martin.boucher@usask.ca) or Emmy Neuls (emmy.neuls@usask.ca).

JOHNSON SHOYAMA

www.schoolofpublicpolicy.sk.ca