This lecture will be available via Zoom. Please register online and the connection details will be emailed to you.

This lecture is brought to you by the Canada Climate Law Initiative and the Saskatchewan Chamber of Commerce.

Saskatchewan businesses are connected to the rest of the world through investors and customers that live beyond our borders. Tighter rules requiring disclosure of climate-related information are already arriving in Canada and around the world. Canada's Budget 2021 includes requirements for climate disclosures from Crown Corporations and the SEC announced the creation of an Enforcement Task Force focused on climate and ESG issues. What does this mean for Saskatchewan companies? How can we remain competitive, build climate competence, and benefit from these shifting global preferences? Join us May 18 to hear from the experts and companies about how they are responding to climate risks and opportunities.
